Around Town

Written by Holyoke Enterprise

In upcoming editions, The Holyoke Enterprise will be printing information about local area college students.

Parents are encouraged to contact the Enterprise office with the following information: student's name, parents' names, school attending, location of school, major and any other pertinent information such as clubs, activities, athletics, etc.

HVFD called

Holyoke Volunteer Fire Department was called to an anhydrous ammonia leak Friday night, Aug. 24 around 6:40 p.m. A truck carrying anhydrous tanks was stopped near Golden Plains Motel when a tank was found to be leaking. HVFD escorted the truck to Grainland Cooperative's east location (Tin City).

Shortly after 10 p.m. the siren summoned firefighters again to assist and back up Colorado State Patrol's Hazardous Materials unit.
