On Friday and Saturday, Sept. 13-14, the Northeast Colorado Child Care Resource and Referral will be holding their two-day pre-licensing class "There's No Place Like Home" for individuals who want to become licensed family child care providers.

This training will be held in Yuma at the Rural Communities Resource Center and is open to all Colorado residents.

Licensed family child care providers offer care in their home to a small group of children. As a home-based business, the family child care provider develops their own rules for operating, such as what hours they will be open, what their daily schedule will be and how much they charge. Home providers also have the opportunity to stay at home with their children instead of leaving their children in the care of someone else while they work outside the home.
