

The Enterprise looks back at top news stories of 2013

Written by Holyoke Enterprise

Jan. 3

Precipitation for 2012 showed only 10.34 total inches for the year.

Melissa Memorial Hospital serves as a beta site for a new version of the Electronic Medical Record with NextGen.

An ordinance was adopted by the Phillips County Board of Commissioners preventing the production and retail sale of marijuana in Phillips County.

Jan. 10

Newman Adventures offers guided pheasant hunts and lodging on a preserve southwest of Holyoke.

The City Council adopts marijuana, parking and nuisance ordinances.

Jackie Reynolds returns to Holyoke as the Phillips County Social Services director after serving as the director of Rural Solutions in Sterling for six years.

Harlan Stern and Don Lock are sworn in as Phillips County commissioners, replacing Jerry Beavers and Bud Bieseimer, who chose not to seek re-election.

The Enterprise looks back at top news stories of 2013

Written by Holyoke Enterprise

Heating, ventilation, air conditioning and refrigeration services are brought to northeast Colorado by Ken Hoch of Hoch LLC.

Jan. 17

First Baptist Church moves to the new facility at 1000 E. Johnson St.

Residents can register cell phones and email addresses to receive emergency alerts about the county.

Savanna Krueger takes first in the District Voice of Democracy speech competition.

Kyle Arnoldy joins the Holyoke Enterprise staff, filling the reporter position previously held by Chris Lee.

Erin Vieselmeyer scores 31 points to help defeat the Wiggins basketball team 49-21.

The Enterprise looks back at top news stories of 2013

Written by Holyoke Enterprise

The Enterprise looks back at top news stories of 2013

Written by Holyoke Enterprise

Water park is a hit at Holyoke's West Park (9/19/13) One of the highlights of the summer season in Holyoke was the opening of the new water park at West Park. The park features a variety of slides and pools, and was a popular destination for families.

Local athletes shine at state meet (10/16/13) Holyoke's athletes performed well at the state meet, with several runners earning medals. The local athletes showed great determination and skill.

City's largest project in the works (9/17/13) The city is currently in the middle of its largest construction project to date. The project involves the construction of several large-scale infrastructure projects, including the new water treatment plant.