

Kim Salazar joins local Bank of the West staff

Written by Holyoke Enterprise

Relocating from Bank of the West in Grand Junction, Kim Salazar began her position as financial services consultant at the Holyoke Bank of the West branch May 4.

She brings a total of six years banking experience to her new position.

Salazar was employed by Wells Fargo Bank for four and a half years in Greeley, and has been with Bank of the West in Grand Junction for a year and a half.

In Holyoke, she assumed the position previously held by Pam Gohl for 18 years. Gohl retired in February and moved to Missouri. Salazar handles new accounts, loans and a variety of other banking services.

She became aware of the open bank job through her friend, Adam Wirges.

Bank manager John Schneider noted he is really excited about Salazar being here and filling the open position at Bank of the West.
