

Licensed family child care is the type of care that most working parents use to be able to work outside of their home. Family child care providers allow children to play and learn in a natural home-based setting that also has flexible hours to support a working parent's needs.

A licensed family child care provider makes a difference in the lives of children and their parents. They also own and run their own business and make a good living for their family. All this while staying home with their own children or grandchildren. What a great way to start a new year!

If anyone has thought about a career as a licensed family child care provider, now is the time to start the process. It generally takes six to eight weeks from start to finish.
