Bulldog flare to shallow right field in the bottom of the eighth inning gave Haxtun the walk-off 10-9 victory.

While showing few signs of rust in the first game at the plate, the Dragons were unable to cleanly field the ball on defense, leading to a number of unearned runs for the Bulldogs.

“We hit the ball well like I was hoping we would, but it’s hard to win games with 10 errors,” coach John Zilla said. “If we cut out half of our errors, we win that game.”

HHS went three-up-three-down offensively in the first inning. While the Dragon batters made solid contact, the balls were hit right to Haxtun defenders for easy outs.

Logan Tharp got the nod as the starting pitcher for the Dragons. Throughout his three innings of work, Tharp had several Haxtun batters guessing as he found success changing speeds and locations. His best attribute in the game, however, was forcing a number of ground balls as he kept his pitches low in the zone.
