Maddie King and Logan Tharp represented Holyoke High School one last time as the pair competed in the Colorado High School Coaches Association 58th All-State Games at Adams State University in Alamosa Saturday, June 14.

The recent HHS graduates made the 6.5-hour drive to Alamosa Thursday for practices before facing off with other top athletes in all classifications throughout Colorado Saturday.

King was among the 37 girls chosen to participate in the All-State volleyball games. As a member of the black team, King wrapped up her high school athletics with two wins. After knocking off the red team in the semifinals, King's squad took down the white team in the championship.
