

Open up wide

Written by Holyoke Enterprise
Wednesday, 29 February 2012 13:35 -

About 40 Holyoke Elementary students took advantage of the free dental services offered by Northeast Colorado Health Department and Centennial Area Health Education Center Tuesday, Feb. 28. Students received a visual screening as well as a fluoride treatment. Future clinics will be held to provide the sealants. Children also received education on how to care for their teeth. Parents had to first submit permission forms for their children to receive the treatments.

Students are pictured Tuesday afternoon, Joey Telck above and Alexander Caraveo and Lauren Herman below.□□

—Enterprise photos

Holyoke Enterprise March 1, 2012