

Elvis rocks and rolls his way onto Christmas stage

Written by Holyoke Enterprise

Even though the other elves thought he was an impersonator, fourth-grader Isaac Strauss sure had the audience convinced as he graced the stage as Elvis during last Thursday night's elementary Christmas program at the HHS auditorium. Complete with a blinged-out guitar made by art teacher Christina Martinez, the program entertained parents, family and friends with "The Elves' Impersonator" play presented by the fourth-graders as well as holiday songs by the kindergartners and second-graders, all under the direction of Marcia Dalton.
